There's nothing to stop cars in the squares

WITH all money spent on the squares in Woolwich is it too much to expect that cars should not be coming from all directions in the evenings and on Sundays? The section of what looks a road between the Iceland store and the DLR station has bollards but there is nothing to stop cars on the pedestrian areas outside the station. To make things worse a couple of Fridays ago a bin collector drove the wrong way down Powis Street.

Chris Leadbeater, Shooters Hill

● Whilst we need to ensure there is access available for deliveries, maintenance vehicles and the emergency services, the Royal Borough of Greenwich is looking at ways we can improve how access is managed in future in order to address your concerns.

Why don't we take responsibility for our own bit of pavement?

EVERY day when I leave home I find myself picking up rubbish strewn around my house. It made me start thinking that if everyone did this our borough could look so much better.

What if everyone was responsible for the small bit of pavement outside their house? And surely the small local shops could sweep the pavement outside their premises at least once a day? After all, it is the wrappings from items bought in their shops that turns into litter, i.e. sweet wrappers, cans and cigarette packets. Everyone moans about how messy our streets look but just a little bit of effort from everyone could make such a difference!

Now's the time for GreenwichCard concessions

AS many Greenwich residents are apprehensive of the disruptions that may take place over the coming months perhaps concessions could be made to enable those with the GreenwichCard to visit different venues or exhibitions, many of which are too expensive for pensioners in particular.

When The O2 on the peninsula opened there were quite a few free days to visit various exhibitions. It would enable people to enjoy all the things that are going on which otherwise many would find too expensive to visit. We don't all have computers so it would be nice to know all the benefits given with the GreenwichCard apart from sports and swimming. There should be telephone numbers given as well as websites.

Resident, Charlton

● We're always looking for new offers we can make to Greenwich Card holders and most recently we arranged a free preview of the Cutty Sark - ahead of it opening to the public. The event was advertised in GT, as well as online and we hope you were able to take advantage of the offer. We're currently running a competition to allow residents to nominate deserving people who live or work in Greenwich, for tickets to attend the Olympic and Paralympic Games (see GT Page 7). And we promote free events such as Parkfest on p9 and last week's jubilee celebrations. We'll also ensure residents can get details of Greenwich Card offers from local leisure centres, and online at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/greenwichcard

students make debut

Talent on show

CATWALK SHOWCASE: Industry professionals and the public at a previous degree show event

STUDENTS at Ravensbourne on Greenwich Peninsula will be showing off their ideas to potential employers this week when they stage a two-day festival.

And organisers are inviting local people to go along as well, so they can find out more about what goes on at the campus.

Ravensbourne opens its doors to industry and the public tomorrow and Thursday (June 13 and 14) for what is being described as "a graduate show like no other".

The Ravensbourne 2012 festival has been organised and designed by the students themselves and will feature live events and displays with 'light' as the theme. It includes three fashion shows, live broadcasts and workshops, and is being promoted as a chance for professionals in design and multi-media industries to headhunt highly-skilled new talent.

Its creative director Chris Hall said: "Local people see Ravensbourne as a building on the peninsula that looks like a block of cheese. This is an opportunity for them to come inside for a visit that will show them that there's a real buzz going on. It will be a real eye-opener for them."

Chris, 22, who lives off Trafalgar Road in Greenwich, is studying interior design and environmental architecture—using a computer screen to create virtual images. He said: "My work involves model-making and visualisations, such as redesigning existing buildings. I've worked on creating retirement homes using several old factories in east London, and Greenwich."

"The aim of this week's show is to not only demonstrate our work, individuality and skills as some of the best graduates coming out into the

working world, but also to show that Ravensbourne really is a place that is doing things with our award-winning building and the latest technology that we have to offer."

Recent graduate Sam Duckett, who worked on last year's showcase said: "This year's production involves around 200 people, plus up to 800 students who will be showcasing their work. We expect anything up to 1,000 industry delegates to come along."

"It's all about students and the industry coming together, and gives students the opportunity to showcase the skills they learned at Ravensbourne. I think this is really one of the best places to be, and it has top-of-the-range equipment that other campuses don't have."

The event runs on Wednesday and Thursday between 2pm and 8.30pm. People who want to go along should first register on the website at www.rave.ac.uk

Warning on a new email scam

BUSINESSES are being warned about a new email scam by fraudsters claiming they want to book activities. The fraudsters pretend to be interested in booking activities such as go-karting, paint balling or farm visits.

They initially approach businesses by email claiming they don't have access to the company's website and cannot book in the usual way.

A Charlton business was contacted by the fraudsters trying to book an activity costing £1,500 and asking to send their credit card details by email. They told the Charlton business they would authorise them to charge £6,500 as long as the business forwarded the overpayment of £5,000 to the fraudsters' "logistics agent" for accommodation and coach rental.

The scam encourages businesses to rely on credit card details sent by email without seeing the card. If the business forwards the overpayment before they try and get payment from the fraudsters' credit card account they're left out of pocket.

The Royal Borough is encouraging businesses to be wary of email bookings for large amounts of money and particularly from anyone asking if they can overpay for activities and have the overpayment transferred elsewhere.

Ella scores 2012 goal

Football promotion work wins her honour of carrying the torch

by Grace Lipski

A YOUNG blogger who encourages others to play football has earned the honour of carrying the Olympic Torch.

John Roan student Ella Statham will carry the torch through Greenwich on July 21 in recognition of the work she does as an ambassador for the London Football Association.

The 15-year-old from Greenwich told GT: "I write a blog about everything I do and try and inspire young people to get involved in sport and advise on how to improve grass roots involvement in football. A manager at the London Football Association Darren Smith nominated me to be a torchbearer."

"He said I have a hard working attitude and that I'm dedicated to my volunteering and I think that's why I was chosen," said Ella. "I'm really excited about being part of it all and carrying the torch."

As an ambassador for the London Football Association Ella helps to organise events and festivals, advises in coaching sessions and promotes career options for young people to follow in sport. She also informs her peers of local opportunities in sport via her blog page, www.ifayoungleader.blogspot.co.uk

Ella thinks living in an Olympic host borough will inspire her generation to get more involved in the sporting industry.

"It's brilliant that the Olympics are going to be on our doorsteps, she said. "It's hopefully going to inspire more young people into sport and teach them to aim high. And even more importantly, it might encourage better community spirit."

Although she's an ambassador for football, Ella has other sports that she's passionate about. "I'm looking forward to watching the cycling and swimming at the Games. I especially love swimming and practise a lot myself."

And after she leaves school, Ella is keen to have a sporty future. "As a career I'd like to go into something that merges sport and media. I'd love to be a sports commentator or sports reporter and help with the coverage of sports events."

Sound Insulation Scheme

London City Airport has launched its new, enhanced Sound Insulation Scheme

The airport is offering sound insulation treatment to eligible properties within the 57 dB L<sub>Aeq,16h</sub> summer noise contour and enhanced sound insulation to properties within the 66 dB L<sub>Aeq,16h</sub> contour. To be eligible, your property needs to be within one of the contours, and meet criteria related to when it was built.

For those already treated under the previous Sound Insulation Schemes 10 year checkups have been introduced for properties which have had either secondary glazing and/or mechanical acoustic ventilators installed by the airport.

No application to the Scheme is necessary; every year an annual report is produced listing the properties eligible and all owners are sent a letter. You can view the list and get more information on the London City Airport Consultative Committee (LCACC) website at www.lcacc.org/noise.

The men behaving healthily

PUT your heart into caring for your health. That's the message to men across the royal borough for Men's Health Week which runs until Sunday, June 17.

The advice comes from the Men's Health Forum, a charity set up to help men make healthier choices.

It's part of a new campaign YOLO - You Only Live Once - which features a series of cheeky posters intended to get men thinking about their heart health.

More generally, the campaign aims to encourage men to think more about their health and well being and to take better care of their health with the support of local services.

Coronary heart disease (CHD) is the most common cause of death - and premature death - for men in the UK. Heart disease disproportionately affects men and especially men in the lower income groups.

The Royal Borough of Greenwich has one of the highest rates of heart disease in London and the campaign is being supported by the borough and a range of health and community organisations including Charlton Athletic Community Trust, Age Concern Greenwich, NHS Greenwich, Greenwich Healthy Living Service and - Greenwich Action for Voluntary Service.

This week they're hosting a range of events and activities designed to help men find out how they can improve their heart health.

They include:

- a five aside football tournament with teams from council and community groups and children's centres
- stop smoking support

New men's health campaign aims to reduce heart disease

- health information, health check and activity sessions
- a team walking challenge
- a healthy eating/cookery course

Forty-two year old West Thamesmead dad-of-two Kishor Das attends free weekly chi ball sessions as well as partaking in nordic walking and swimming.

He said: "Men tend to shy away from certain types of activities thinking they're airy fairy and they don't see the benefits. They might drink or smoke to deal with their stress but these activities are another way to relieve stress.

As well as the physical benefits, activities like chi ball can help with your mental well being and help prevent future problems down the line." Cllr John Fahy the royal

Dogs have their day

THESE pooches got dressed up in jubilee garb to promote a special doggie fun day later this week in Eltham.

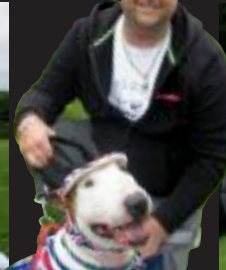

The canine costumes of red white and blue were an apt way to promote a very British breed – the English bull terrier.

There will be more than 40 of the terriers at the day this Saturday, June 16 at Eltham Park South. Most are rescue dogs, and all will competing for the title of best-dressed dog.

Organiser Karen Lang said: "We're having the doggie fun day up to raise awareness because the English bull terrier is really misunderstood and has a bad press – which is very unfair."

SHINY COAT: Ben and canine chum

SMILE: Gary's happy hound

RELAX: the O'Sheas and pet pals

"We're trying to put them in the right light and show them as the great family dog that they are."

Karen owns seven of the dogs herself, and runs Absolute Bull Terriers, which rescues and re-homes mistreated and unwanted pets. "Between 100 and 150 come in to us every year," she said. The doggie fun day starts at 12 noon and activities on-site include (for pets) a dog agility course, dog deli, and grab a ball comp. And for humans there's a penalty shoot-out, obstacle course, bungee run, sumo wrestling and face painting.

The event is free to attend, any donations given will go towards paying vets bills and giving English bull terriers good homes.

Revellers get stuck into Big Lunch at naval college

THOUSANDS of local people, visitors and royalists braved the weather at the Big Lunch at the Old Royal Naval College on Sunday, June 3.

Spirits weren't dampened by the rain and visitors were treated to a host of activities in Greenwich town centre at the event supported by the royal borough.

Top chef Raymond Blanc was on hand to help with the food which was wolfed down on a long street party table (top pic).

All the action from central London was beamed onto a big screen, before the Gloriana led the flotilla of boats into the waters of SE10.

Crowds cheered as the boats went by, waving flags and filming proceedings for posterity, (bottom left).

HIGH FIRE: Eltham MP Clive Efford and local sea cadets lit the highest jubilee beacon

HEAVE HO: a team of rain-soaked rowers take a breather, while below, night time royalists visit the lighting of the highest beacon in London at Eaglesfield on the top of Shooters Hill

Highest beacon in London is lit

THE highest diamond jubilee beacon in London was lit on Shooters Hill on Monday June 4, along with three others in the royal borough.

The four were ignited in separate ceremonies and joined more than 4,000 nationally before Her Majesty lit the national beacon in front of Buckingham Palace, following the star-studded concert and fireworks display.

The beacons were lit locally around 10pm. In Woolwich, with a crowd of 500 people watching the concert on the big screen, the beacon was set alight by Scouts from the 36th Woolwich and Guides from Abbeywood, on the roof of the Woolwich Equitable building.

In Cutty Sark Gardens, Greenwich, the ceremony was performed by army cadets based in Charlton. Cadet Zoe Todd, 16, was given the honour, in the presence of the Mayor of Royal Greenwich, Cllr David Grant.

At The O2 the ceremony was carried out by police cadets. Eaglesfield Park, on the top of Shooters Hill, earned the title of the highest Diamond Jubilee beacon in the capital when it was lit by local sea cadets and Eltham MP Clive Efford.

otilla thriller!

A FLOTILLA of hundreds of boats pass the Old Royal Naval College watched by thousands of regal-loving revellers. The boats were led by the Gloriana which was powered by a 18-man rowing team which included Olympic gold medallists Sir Steve Redgrave and Matthew Pinsent. Suffice to say, it was going at quite a rate, so much so that even the motor launches struggled to keep up.

General Gordon gets great gigs

THE West End came to Woolwich on Friday June 1, when Joseph and the Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat was played out in General Gordon Square.

Students from sixth form colleges, NEGUS and Woolwich Polytechnic took the lead parts and were backed up by a 180-strong choir of local primary school pupils and their teachers.

Opera tenor Sean Ruane had been tutoring the students and got his chance to sing a selection of specially commissioned arias at the close of the performance. Also in General Gordon Square on June 4, street performers hoping to make their mark on the London Olympics took centre stage.

It was the chance for extrovert jugglers, musicians and actors to audition for the opportunity to be at one of the Greenwich venues for the 2012 Games.

It tied in with the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, and the concert at Buckingham Palace was shown on the big screen at the Woolwich square later in the evening.

GT's 4-page Queen's Diamond Jubilee picture special

A JUBILEE beacon was lit on the top of The O2 in North Greenwich on Monday, June 4 (bottom right). Police cadets Ryan Biddis, Jonathan Wride, Ugur Celikbilek and Joe Strong helped Cllr Peter Kotz, the royal borough's member for culture and creative industries set the flame on the top of the dome. Army cadets joined the Mayor Cllr David Grant to light a beacon in Cutty Sark Gardens (main pic). And on the roof of the Woolwich Equitable building, (below), Scouts and Guides from Woolwich and Abbeywood get ready to start their flame.

We're all fired up!

The view from our street!

THESE fantastic pictures were sent in by Elena Rowland from Woolwich. She said: "We organised a street party on the corner of Hill Reach and Frances Street behind the King's Arms pub in the car park. The residents from Len Clifton House arrived and enjoyed the party food and games."

SCENE

COMEDIANS are a funny breed. And not always funny ha-ha.

The best are manic depressives, who even at their lowest ebb can dig out solid gold one-liners. Peter Cook for instance. Or others, like Richard Pryor, who turned the most difficult of lives into the most original of comedy.

Which makes you wonder why Sean Hughes is so miserable. Hughes has always been something of a curmudgeon, famously from his days on Never Mind the Buzzcocks. And Scene's not getting much joy today. We do manage to prise from him that he's playing Greenwich Comedy Festival next month, but not a lot else.

Hughes is a man of contradictions. First he tells us he's popping out this evening to do a 20-minute secret show to stop himself from getting rusty, then says he hates doing 20-minute shows.

Maybe the 46-year old is waiting for the call-up from the BBC's Grumpy Old Men. He could certainly get a starring role with the gripes he's got.

"I don't really like doing 20-minute sets, it's not really my forte," he says. "I don't really like club comedy. I don't like hearing four people talk about the same thing."

"You get a lot of stuff where you hear the same generic subjects coming up. I don't really go to [comedy] clubs. You'll hear people going on about self-service checkouts - stuff like that, you just go 'really?...'"

His own comedy is a far drier variety, a sinuous strand of embittered observations on the impending and unstoppable journey into middle age.

"Any good comic comes from their own point of view," he says. "You're not trying to change the world but it's good to have a different slant on things. A lot of comedy now is back to the old style of comedy - just telling a joke, which is fine, but it gets a bit monotonous."

"Anyone who says that Michael McIntyre and Live at the Apollo is rock 'n' roll doesn't really listen to music. They're all really good comics, but if you're doing six minutes on telly then people get really shocked when you do a one-hour show because you can't listen to that relentless gag, gag, gag for an hour.

"It gives the wrong impression of what comedy is about. The reason I did comedy was because of Richard Pryor doing long shows and really talking about things."

And it's not with great fondness he looks back on his days at Never Mind the Buzzcocks.

"It was what it was - it was fun for a while, but then I felt like we were doing the same thing every week. After 10 series I thought that was enough from me. It was one of the first panel shows, and now that's all there is on TV. It was a good thing, and a bad thing as well."

Hughes moved to London when still a teenager to pursue his ambition of becoming a stand-up.

"I used to love going into the Comedy Store as a punter when I was young, even though I hated playing there. It takes a lot of balls to play there. I would be so nervous I'd throw up before I went on stage."

"If you can go out with confidence it just makes it seem quite easy - they're the good comics I guess."

"It is absolutely terrifying at the start, but I've always felt it was second nature - I feel more at home on stage than I do walking down a road in London at night."

His new routine - Sean Hughes Stands Up - hits Greenwich on July 14. He still likes the audience to get involved, but not too much.

"You don't tend to get hecklers at hour-long shows - what's the point of coming and shouting someone off stage after a minute?! I do enjoy interaction though, comedy should be a live event."

Rod Kitson

AMATEUR theatre group the Priory Players have been dishing out productions in Eltham for more than 45 years, with classics like Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's The Hound of the Baskervilles to Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves.
This time round they perform the third instalment of a trilogy from prolific British playwright Alan Ayckbourn.
The play focuses on the exploits of Norman, a philandering sort who gleefully attempts to woo each of his sister-in-laws Annie and Sarah to go away with him for debauchery-filled fun. All in the name of happiness.
With a plot that makes the TV soaps look straightforward, Annie is actually waiting for vegetarian Tom to sweep her off her feet and Tom is confused by the seduction from other sister Ruth and impending feelings, or not, for Annie.

LET'S HAVE A PARTY: past production of Abigail's Party

The group meets every Tuesday evening at 8pm and are always looking for new members who would like to help with every aspect of theatre from stage production to directing.

Brecht still relevant after seventy years

PERSECUTION, intolerance, injustice and fear. The hallmarks of Hitler's Nazi regime, but unlikely ingredients for a pleasant night or the basis for serious debate.

If seven decades on Brecht's Fear and Misery of the Third Reich still shocks and disturbs, what on earth did they think at the time? First performed on the eve of the Second World War in 1938, it dared ask what had not yet been asked: how complicit were the Germans in both their personal repression and the appalling events which would follow?

Bertold Brecht, (right), is complex both to act and to watch, his structures and content controversial. But if this series of scenes by University of Greenwich students, (15 of the original 24 scenes) allows no momentum to build, its message remains remarkably clear.

The Chalk Cross (Berlin, 1934) set the tone for the evening ahead – a family, a brown shirt (Yvette Bruin), suspicion, – the Judicial Process (Augsburg 1934) gave it passion and meaning. A judge (Rosa Eells), a Jew and a verdict ordained. "I must know what they want", says the judge to his friend, "how else can real justice be served". Brecht's portrayal of his country as a land full of fear was the first of his anti-Nazi works. As the husband assures her it's for two weeks at most, we all know they are really saying goodbye.

The final year students played their roles to the full, in both challenging and multiple roles. Bruin caught the eye, relaxed and composed and convincing whenever on stage, Keogh was most capable, persuasive and neat, her role in The Spy quite compelling. But the highlight for me was Rayner's Jewish Wife, her soliloquy both touching and tender. She rose to the challenge of a difficult role and based on this she should surely go far. The minimalist stage – giant swastikas and some chairs – was effective and slick as it echoed the power of the message.

This simple production of some complex ideas leaves the audience with considerable food for thought. Repressive regimes can always be stopped but the question as ever is by whom. 7/10

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 291

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

1 Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

2 Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

3 Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website: www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes
Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

4 Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

GreenwichHomes adverts

Greenwich Time is now being published 50 weeks a year and is delivered to all residents. GreenwichHome adverts are included in every issue.

SPORT

Back of the netball!

FANCY getting back into netball? Or want to try it for the first time?

The chance is there for players new or former to take up the fleet-footed game that was up and running long before Michael Jordan slammed his first dunk.

Back to Netball is a gentle introduction to the game for female players over 16. There are two venues in the borough, and a choice of involvement level, from purely social exercise to league competition.

Sessions cover basic skill development and court play. The emphasis is on learning new skills and having fun.

Top-class coach Lucy Hantson from England Netball is overseeing the Back to Netball initiative locally. Lucy told GT: "Netball England spoke to people in Greenwich about the game and it was felt that we could find lots of former players and plenty of new ones aged 16 to 60 - or older!"

"Back to Netball is a gentle 10-12-week re-introduction to the sport, concentrating on the basics of the game, especially passing and

footwork. The idea is for players to enjoy the game and the fitness involved but if they want to progress to league netball that's fine and we'll help them do it."

Both sessions are held on Thursday - 9.15-10.15am at the netball court in Nelson Mandela Road, off Rochester Way, and at the Coldharbour Leisure Centre in Chapel Farm Road, New Eltham, from 6.30-7.30pm.

"The morning session is proving very popular with mums who drop their children off at school and come along," said Lucy. "League netball is already played at Coldharbour but again it is open to people who just want to enjoy the sport and social life."

"Word of mouth is working well and we already have eight to 10 ladies coming to Coldharbour. The game is on Sky Sports quite a lot and that's helping to get people playing again."

"We're tending to get ladies who did play when they were young and are now returning to the game they loved."

Mum of three children under nine and once a nifty player, Joanne Kilby jumped at the chance to play again.

She said: "I've loved netball since juniors at primary school. It's such a great game and once you get a good team, the pace can be very exciting!"

"I'm a full-time mum so our training time of 9.15-10.15am suits me brilliantly. Netball gives you the opportunity to mix with new people, chat, laugh and realise what you've been missing for the past 20 years!"

Lucy Hantson is also up for suggestions to start Back to Netball in other parts of the borough.

St Mary's sweep the board at primary championships

DIFFERENT year, same result.

St Mary's swept the board at the Royal Greenwich Primary Schools annual swimming championships at the Eltham Centre, winning both the boys and girls competitions and the overall championship.

The team from the school in Glenure Road, Eltham, received the trophy from Royal Greenwich Mayor David Grant. He said: "It's a tremendous achievement for St Mary's to win the championship two years running."

"They obviously encourage their pupils to get involved in a sport that's great for health and fitness. They've also set the mark for every other school next year!"

Primary schools sent teams of Year 4, 5 and 6 pupils to compete in the final at the centre on Friday, May 25, the heats having been held over two other days. More than 150 pupils competed in 20 races. They were from Meridian, Montbelle, James Wolfe, Gordon, Invicta, Our Lady of Grace, Brooklands, Eltham C of E, St Josephs, Millennium and Willowdene as well as St Mary's.

Gordon finished second overall with Montbelle third. Brooklands were awarded the small schools trophy. Medals were presented by the mayor to the event winners, watched by a crowd of more than 250 proud parents, teachers and friends.

The championships were part of the Royal Greenwich Aquatic Pathway, a year-long activity programme to encourage swimming at all levels. They were hosted by Sky Sports commentator Dickie Davis, who is chairman of Greenwich Swimming Club.
